The Metamorphosis in Emojis

Loosely inspired by the work of F. Kafka

This project reimagines Franz Kafka's The Metamorphosis through a series of emojis, replacing words while conveying the emotions and transformations of the story.

Rewritten in around twenty key sentences, each slide presents a new visual interpretation, colorful and dynamic, inviting the viewer to explore the Kafkaesque universe in a modern and visually immersive way.

I. GREGOR'S AWAKENING

Gregor, a traveling salesman, wakes up late and has missed his train.

He has transformed into a monstrous,
multi-legged insect.

Stuck in his shell, unable to move,
he retains his human consciousness.

His family arrives, knocking on the door to hear the news.

His boss also comes to check on him.

Gregor manages to stick his head through the door ajar.

Frightened, the boss runs away.

The mother faints, and the father violently chases him away with the boss's cane.

II. THE ABANDONMENT

Grete, his sister, comes to feed him every day.

The mother fainted at the sight of him and never returned.

Gregor no longer knows how to fulfill his role as the breadwinner.

Three new tenants move into the house.

The mother became a seamstress, Grete a saleswoman, and the father found a job in a bank.

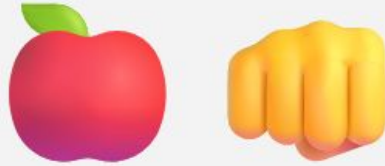

III. LIFE GOES ON WITHOUT GREGOR

One evening, Gregor hears his sister playing the violin and comes out of his room.

At the sight of him, the tenants flee without paying.

HIS FATHER THROWS AN APPLE AT HIM, INJURING HIM.

The family decides to get rid of Gregor.

Gregor, no longer eating and overcome by the untreated wound, was found dead.

The family, barely saddened, makes a fresh start.

They go out for a walk.
